

Lucy Brown

Primeval, Sharpe
Will read 21st Century Juliet by Rose Tremain

Ray Panthaki

Ali G in da house, Kidult-hood Will read Paki
by Gautam Malkani

Ian Hart

(Harry Potter)
will read 'Testicular Cancer vs The Behemoth' by Adam Marek

Richard Schiff

(The West Wing)
will read 'Vanilla Bright Like Eminem' by Michel Faber

WordTheatre uk

presents our relaunch show

LOVE, HATE AND RACE IN THE UK

on monday the 12th march at the cafe de paris, london W1 in association with Prospect magazine

&

in support of The Parkinson's Appeal for Deep Brain Stimulation

6-7pm Reception and pay bar with complimentary finger food

7-8pm Introduction to 'The Short Story' by Alex Linklater, founder of the National Short Story Prize and Fiction Editor for Prospect Magazine.
Ian Hart (Finding Neverland; Harry Potter) will read 'Testicular Cancer vs The Behemoth' by Adam Marek
Lucy Brown (Priemval, Sharpe) will read '21st Century Juliet' by Rose Tremain

8-8:30 INTERVAL with complimentary canapes

8:30-9:15 Ray Panthaki (Ali G in da house,) will read 'Paki' by Gautam Malkani
Richard Schiff (The West Wing) will read 'Vanilla Bright Like Eminem' by Michel Faber

Tickets

Advance tickets: £20 per person including canapés available online at www.wordtheatre.com

Tickets are £25 on the door

Contact Kirsty for further information at kirsty@wordtheatre.com

Edited by Alex Linklater Directed by Christian Banfield Produced by Kirsty Peart Artistic Director, Cedering Fox

Cafe De Paris
4 Coventry Street
London W1D 6BL

The Café De Paris, in London's Piccadilly is one of the most famous and durable venues in the world. With a glittering history, spanning nine decades, the Café has consistently played host to a wide variety of powerful and absorbing performers and guests' members of the aristocracy, eminent political figures, dazzling pop stars, captains of industry, superstars from the silver screen even royalty.

New owner, Brian Stein, took over Café de Paris in 2002, passionately committed to completing the restoration of this prestigious venue to the glory and glamour of her heyday. A fresh and dynamic team swiftly began to attract high profile events such as the Agent Provocateur 10th Birthday, Marie Claire's 17th, the Merchant of Venice's premiere party and the spectacular Mastercard One Priceless Night.

In 2004 Café de Paris proudly celebrated her 80th birthday. With a few discrete nips and tucks and shiny new wardrobe (and without starring in a reality show) she is still the most gorgeous girl in town.

www.cafedeparis.com

